Recommendation letter

With this letter, I would like to support Liuxi Mei (born 1990-08-16) in his job applications. I am currently collaborating with Liuxi as a supervisor of his master thesis. During our collaboration, Liuxi has demonstrated ability to understand complex machine learning models, to structure and manipulate complex omics datasets and understand limitations of the results obtained, all within limited time frames. On a less positive note, his current ability to communicate and present own results requires further improvements, but I can observe some progress in that direction.
